LOBBY	NSP Family	NSP Family: Some, like the one I am involved in, are co-ed and others are the more traditional male-female	9/16/2009 11:20
LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF NSP Jaime): Fmason regarding your question about tutoring are there specific areas of study you are interesting in knowing more about?	9/16/2009 11:20
		FamilyChatModerator(UF CSAI Sarah):
		I would add that we have over 900 student organizations on campus for students to join, and if can't seem to find a group they are looking for our staff in the CSAI can help them start their one!
LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator		9/16/2009 11:20
		crankycamp:
		I'm not sure how many other fraternities or sororities are on the non-social, more tied to the acedemic side, Sara? I had never realized there were different kinds.
LOBBY	crankycamp		9/16/2009 11:20
LOBBY	fmason	fmason: thank you.calculus & chemistry	9/16/2009 11:21
LOBBY	ktdid	ktdid: My son is a "pledge" for Chi Phi, I am not sure if it is specific to any one major/academics, but there are a lot of engineering majors there.	9/16/2009 11:21
LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF CSAI Sarah): Well our social greek fraternities and sororities are a bit different than the greek letter organizations with unique missions such as band, business, service, engineering, we are also have some faith based greek letter organizations	9/16/2009 11:21
LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF CSAI Sarah): Chi Phi is one of the social fraternities on campus	9/16/2009 11:22

LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF CSAI Sarah): it is not tied to any specific major or college	9/16/2009 11:22

LOBBY	NSP Family	NSP Family: tutoring zone is great for test reviews in large groups, and the broward teaching ceneter is great for one-on-one help every week with homework! They also have test reviews from the class available	9/16/2009 11:24
LOBBY	kimkrankin	kimkrankin: that's probably why she's using both (as complements to each other)	9/16/2009 11:24

LOBBY	NSP Family	NSP Family: That's what I have done in the past and it definitely is very helpful to hear from both! The tutoring center, however, is very convenient because its right on campus.	9/16/2009 11:25

What I did is I wrote down all of the organizations I was interested in and emailed a member/checked a website to find out a general meeting I could go to. If I was scared to go by myself, I would ask my roommate or a friend to go with me.	9/16/2009 11:34

LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	I know this may seem like a simple question but how are your students doing in getting enough rest? Some of our students really struggle to get a healthy amount of sleep each night	9/16/2009 11:42
LOBBY	kimkrankin	kimkrankin: both were big time high school athletes and are enjoying playing for fun, and refuse to put on that freshmen 15	9/16/2009 11:42
LOBBY	NGOSWAMI	NGOSWAMI: For the young man who is a bit of an introvert, have him contact my son, vgoswami@cfl.rr.com, Vishal is a freshman at Hume, and really great with shy people. Vishal will put him at ease.	9/16/2009 11:42
LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF NSP Jaime): Hi terigold Welcome back!	9/16/2009 11:42

LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF GHPS Samantha): Have your students adjusted okay to eating well on campus and not having that type of structure that they had a home?	9/16/2009 11:43
LOBBY	kimkrankin	kimkrankin: I am getting a little concerned about getting enough rest as I saw a facebook entry of hers at almost 2:30 am one night	9/16/2009 11:43
LOBBY	crankycamp	crankycamp: I think so - I am just concerned that mine has come down with several colds/sinus type things....so I worry about the eating although she tells me she is eating and drinking properly	9/16/2009 11:44
LOBBY	NGOSWAMI	NGOSWAMI: At Hume, there is no fridge on his floor. The little fridge, they have in the room, is only big enough for drinks. They always have to eat out, which is not the healthiest food.	9/16/2009 11:44
LOBBY	NGOSWAMI	NGOSWAMI: They are also limited to what they can eat on campus, so many times, he has to go off campus to get a change.	9/16/2009 11:45
LOBBY	kimkrankin	kimkrankin: Actually, because of the crazy schedules our family's had at home, multiple children playing multiple sports, I think she's has more structure at UF for her meals	9/16/2009 11:45
LOBBY	tibet2001	tibet2001: I think she's getting enough rest. As for eating healthy she tries. But she is getting tired of the food.	9/16/2009 11:46
LOBBY	NSP Family	NSP Family: What I did my freshman year while I lived at Jennings, is a couple of us girls would get together and buy one grocery bill and split it between us. So that between the 6 or so of us we could store all of the food we wanted to cook, agree on who would do the cooking and cleaning, and be able to have a set dinner time. I found this helped me eat at a more regular time with more regular, balance meals	9/16/2009 11:46
LOBBY	terigold	terigold: hi. how is the de-tripling process moving along?	9/16/2009 11:46
LOBBY	NGOSWAMI	NGOSWAMI: Good idea, but I am not sure if this works with the boys.	9/16/2009 11:47
LOBBY	tibet2001	tibet2001: My daughter is at Jennings & I know she cooks a little in the kitchen with a group.	9/16/2009 11:47
LOBBY	kimkrankin	kimkrankin: That'sd kind of what mine has done on the weekends.since she's on a 5 day meal plan	9/16/2009 11:47
		FamilyChatModerator(UF GHPS Samantha):

LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	Although there are alot of more convenient, and not as potentially healthy options available on campus, it's important to remember that there are healthy options available, as well.	9/16/2009 11:47
LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF NSP Jaime): I know Housing is still working on the de-tripling at this time	9/16/2009 11:48
LOBBY	NSP Family	NSP Family: NGOSWAMI, I know some boys who would do this as well--they would find one who knows how to cook and he would teach the rest! Not all of the girls knew how to cook more than an egg, so we would teach each other how to make basic meals. The students could always group up with other friends that live on campus, too.	9/16/2009 11:48
LOBBY	terigold	terigold: no details available aside from where you are on the list?	9/16/2009 11:48
LOBBY	tibet2001	tibet2001: Mine has the 150 block plan & is using her flex bucks a lot!	9/16/2009 11:48
LOBBY	NSP Family	NSP Family: Tibet2001, that's great! There are a lot of options on campus for good food!	9/16/2009 11:49
LOBBY	NGOSWAMI	NGOSWAMI: What is the 150 block plan?	9/16/2009 11:49

LOBBY	kimkrankin	kimkrankin: You know, I believe these chats have helped with this.... My child never used tutoring in school before. But after my being on these chats and hearing about how much the tutoring services are used and how positive people have elt about them , I encouraged her to take advantage of these services. She has and is happy about the results so far.	9/16/2009 12:21
LOBBY	tchris39	tchris39: I do. my daughter loves it. i still worry about after dark walking/riding between library, etc and back and forth to dorm	9/16/2009 12:22

LOBBY	burhoec	burhoec: Yes, I know mine is. She is walking and biking the campus since her classes are spread out. She likes her dorm and room mates and has already been studying with groups of friends (new and old).	9/16/2009 12:23
LOBBY	NSP Family	NSP Family: tchris39, we have something on campus specifically for students to use at night for safe travelling! Its called SNAP. It stands for Student Nighttime Auxiliary Patrol and its a van service your students can call and they will pick them up and drop them off anywhere on campus	9/16/2009 12:23
LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF NSP Jaime): tchris I am glad your daughter is enjoying herself. The darker eveings are something to be aware of, does she do a good job about traveling in groups?	9/16/2009 12:23

LOBBY	tchris39	tchris39:  i always tell her too and i know she has used facebook to ask for walking partners but if it is pretty late, i worry she won't want to impose. If she is walking , i will remind her about snap and to take advantage of it whenever possible	9/16/2009 12:25
LOBBY	FamilyChatModerator	FamilyChatModerator(UF NSP Jaime):  if she is by herself just make sure is staying alert and aware and staying in well lit areas, we have a very active campus both during the day and night so chances are she is probably not alone	9/16/2009 12:27
